Before The ZEBRASSIERES started to create their soundtrack for a lost generation, alpha zebra Andrew and black and white operatress Sarah were already punkin' and poppin' out with the FUNFUNS.

Pat Kearns, who already recorded the EXPLODING HEARTS, CLOROX GIRLS, RED DONS and REVISIONS recorded these 7 songs and sure wouldn't have been any fun fun if they had never gotten their groove tickled by your needle. Scheduled for launching on Going Gaga, it somehow never happened and they got stuck in the crevasse of oblivion.

Until now: The P.Trashcue Team recovered them and packed them in a silkscreened emergency blanket in a damn tiny edition of only 300 one-sided copies. The FUNFUNS were definitely less New Wave and more poppy Punk than the ZEBRASSIERES. Still, songs like "My head", "Wait forever" or "Everybody likes you (I don't)" also add a dash of organ, but everything is way more on the straight and catchy RAMONES-influenced Punk side, the sound you know and love from STEVE ADAMYK and the whole bunch of Canadians.
